From participants in 2007

- I think going to Mexico was the best experience I have had in my life.
- I now truly understand the concept of foreign missions, that brothers and sisters in Christ know no boundaries.
- Joy in life is not obtained with material things.
- It forever changes you. It opens your heart, soul, & mind.
- In a movie I've seen, it says, "God is like the wind, you can't see Him, but you can feel Him." I know I felt God with me the whole time I was there. I know he is everywhere, but I think I really felt his presence in Mexico.
- I admired the people – their wisdom, hard work, unselfishness, etc.
- Love! Those people live there with hardly anything and they are happy, lively people. They were so kind and always sharing love with others.
- The children live in my heart, mind and spirit with all that I see, hear, feel, touch and do – wherever I go. I wish to return so they will know we truly care and love them and help more.
- [It made] me more appreciative of my many blessings.
- It opened my eyes to the diversity of people that worship Christ.
- I always feel that I have left a part of me in Mexico and I cannot really, really explain the feelings that I have, but I know it has helped me grow in my faith.
